

New home page - more improvements coming!

The Cachelan team is thrilled to announce some exciting new improvements, and we're just getting started! If you've visited cachelan.com recently, you may have noticed that we have a completely new look. We are continuing to invest in product updates, improvements and redesigns and we are starting with a modernized homepage.

In the coming months we will be releasing new and exciting features, many of them requested by you - our customers so that you can get the most out of your Cachelan monitoring systems.

Features Coming Soon!

- Enhanced external API, with 10 min & real time data
 - Contact for details
- New graphs view
- better battery and load consumption displays
- Improvements to asset management features
- Stay tuned for more!

We value your feedback! We would love to hear your thoughts on our new look and to hear about the features you'd like to receive from us. Email us or leave a comment on our social media linked below!
